Personal Financial Literacy Education
2010 Maryland Training Opportunities

Maryland State Department of Education and Family Economics & Financial Education (FEFE) have teamed up to offer training opportunities created specifically with you in mind to make a difference in how America’s youth think about money. FEFE Trainings are designed “by educators for educators” providing educators with the skills and confidence to teach financial education, ultimately empowering future generations to be financially literate and savvy consumers.

This Year’s Educator Trainings:

★ Provide interactive workshops led by current classroom educators, our FEFE National Educator Team & Maryland State Educator Team, modeling lesson plan activities.

★ Create networking opportunities for meaningful and relevant discussions about best practices within the financial literacy classroom.

★ Invite participants to connect with industry and university experts as they discuss cutting-edge research and trends.

★ Offer an abundance of ready-to-teach curriculum materials designed by educators.

Join us for these premier educator-designed trainings you will not want to miss!

Credit in Today’s Society

April 30
Federal Reserve Bank Richmond, Baltimore

★ Why you should attend: With regulations and products constantly changing this content oriented training is sure to provide you with an insight on the new credit card regulations impacting young adults and their families, the many forms of predatory lending, resources for consumers experiencing financial difficulty, and understanding the complex world of credit scoring. This intensive one-day training showcases national experts providing timely and applicable information. By attending this event you will benefit from a deeper understanding of credit topics as well as receive instructional materials and activities that are sure to engage your audience as you integrate the content into the learning environment.

★ Get signed up: $50 (includes lunch and resources). Online registration will begin February 16.

East Coast Educator Training

August 3-5
Marriott Hunt Valley, Hunt Valley

★ Be part of the three-day training: We’ve designed this training especially with educators new to FEFE in mind. The East Coast Educator interactive training is designed to showcase the entire Take Charge of Your Finances advanced semester course as well as the Get Ready to Take Charge introductory curriculum. Educators will receive comprehensive instruction about FEFE’s vast array of educator-oriented resources, experience the activities as each lesson is modeled by current classroom instructors and discuss best practices for success. Nationally renowned experts will join us for several key-note presentations about hot topics within the financial industry that will benefit you and your students.

★ Get signed up: Online registration will begin March 1.

New Educator Resources

August 4
Marriott Hunt Valley, Hunt Valley

★ How FEFE can continue to support you: Providing up-to-date, ready-to-teach lesson plans is a guiding principle of the FEFE program. Each year over 25 lesson plans updated or newly created to reflect recommendations and changes in the financial industry. This training is designed to engage educators previously trained by FEFE through modeling activities from new or updated FEFE lesson plans, discussing best practices when teaching financial education, identify FEFE support resources, and learn from content experts. Recently revised lesson plans you will want to learn more about include savings unit, consumer protection, and FEFE active learning tools.

★ Get signed up: Online registration will begin March 1.